COOLIDGE VITALIZES THE MONROE DOCTRINE

FRIENDLY NOTICE IS GIVEN TO THE LEAGUE NATIONS

THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS WILL WORK OUT "OWN DESTINY IN OWN WAY"

PRES. COOLIDGE ADDRESSES PAN
AMERICAN CONFERENCE
AT HAVANA

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Havana, Jan. 16.—The American republics must join together to work out "their own destiny in their own way," President Coolidge told the Pan American conference here today.

In a speech preaching the Golden Rule, peace and democracy for the western world, the president gave what was generally regarded as a new vitality to the Monroe Doctrine. At the same time, he declared that the policies he outlined involved "no antagonism toward any other section of the world or any other organization."

These passages, largely viewed as a friendly notice to the League of Nations and the world at large that the Americas will bind themselves ever more closely together, without outside interference, were linked with assurances that the Americas intend to let justice, equity and respect for each others' sovereignty prevail in all their relations.

"The existence of this conference, held for the consideration of measures of purely American concern, involves no antagonism toward any other section of the world or any other organization," President Coolidge said. "It means that the independent republics of the western hemisphere, animated by the same ideals, enjoying the common blessings of freedom and peace, realize that there are many matters of mutual interest and importance which can best be investigated and resolved through the medium of such friendly contact and negotiation as is necessary for co-operative action."

"We realize that one of the most important services which we can render humanity, the one for which we are peculiarly responsible, is to maintain the ideals of our Western World. That is our obligation."

"No one else can discharge it for us."

"If it is to be met, we must meet it ourselves. We must join together in assuring conditions under which our republics will have the freedom and the responsibility of working out their own destiny in their own way."

The president's speech made no reference to the recent U. S. ordering of more marines to Nicaragua. "Consideration and co-operation, friendship and charity," he designated as the "highest law" in international dealings, adding:

"If we are to experience a new era in our affairs, it will be because the world recognizes and lives in accordance with this spirit. Its most complete expression is the Golden Rule."

The president's message to a notable gathering of Pan American delegates here carried as its main theme peace and co-operation among the Americas. He advocated stronger ties of business and communication, and favored development of aviation as a means of strengthening the bonds among the sister republics of the north and south. Mr. Coolidge's address, regarded as one of the strongest pleas for friendship among the Pan American countries, praised the democracy of these nations and held that "next to our attachment to the principle of self-government has been our attachment to the policy of peace." The president declared the American republics had always gauged their military establishments to the needs of self-protection but never "for the purpose of overawing or subjugating other nations."

"In the spirit of Christopher Columbus all of the Americas have an eternal bond of unity, a common heritage bequeathed to us alone," Mr. Coolidge said. "Unless we together redeem the promise which his voyage held for humanity, it must remain forever void. This is the

*NORMAL SPAN OF HUMAN LIFE EXTENDED*

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—The normal span of human life will be extended ten years beyond the present 60-year average in the next generations, according to Dr. Charles Mayo.

Having eliminated many of the graver hazards to earlier life, medical science is turning to prolongation of so-called middle age, Dr. Mayo said. He pointed out that the individual must co-operate by giving the proper care of his body.

More prolongation of life, Dr. Mayo said, is not so important unless the extra years are made useful with energy and enthusiasm for constructive action.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Black Bess, a six-year old thoroughbred army mare making a cross-continent trip "at a slow trot," was to resume the road from here today.

With Lieut. Paul C. Lienhard of the 303rd cavalry, N. Y. C., astride her back, Black Bess has covered approximately 1,275 miles since leaving Manhattan on Dec. 13.

"She simply is wonderful," Lieut. Lienhard said in describing the mount he is guiding to Los Angeles. "Not a blister nor a swelling of any kind has been raised on the trip. She is sounder than when she started."

Black Bess picks her own gait, according to Lienhard, and has selected a "slow trot" as best suited to the trip. She averages approximately six miles an hour, he said, and the normal day's trip is 42 miles.

Lieut. Lienhard believes the trip is the first of its kind ever undertaken by one horse. He is carrying a letter from Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York to be delivered to the mayor of Los Angeles.

destiny which Pan America has been chosen to fulfill.

"The spirit of liberty is universal. An attitude of peace and good will prevails among our nations. A determination to adjust differences among ourselves, not by a resort to force, but by the application of the principles of justice and equity, is one of our strongest characteristics. The sovereignty of small nations is respected. It is for the purpose of giving stronger guarantees to these principles, of increasing the amount and extending the breadth of these blessings, that this conference has been assembled."

"Our most sacred trust has been and is the establishment and expansion of the spirit of democracy. No doubt we shall make some false starts and experience some disappointing reactions. But we have put our confidence in the ultimate wisdom of the people. We believe we can rely on their intelligence, their honesty and their character. We are thoroughly committed to the principle that they are better fitted to govern themselves than anyone else is to govern them."

"Next to our attachment to the principle of self-government has been our attachment to the policy of peace. When the republics of the western hemisphere gained their independence, they were compelled to fight for it. They have always been a brave, resolute and determined people, willing to make any sacrifices to defend what they believed to be their rights. But when once their rights have been secured they have been almost equally solicitous to respect the rights of others. Their chief efforts have been devoted to the arts of peace. They have never

FARM RELIEF CAMPAIGN ON IN THE HOUSE

HEARINGS OPEN BEFORE HOUSE
AGRICULTURAL COM-MITTEE

REPRESENTATIVES OF FARM OR-GANIZATIONS VOICE
PLEAS

Washington, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—The farm relief campaign began in the house today.

Hearings opened before the house agricultural committee, with representatives of farm organizations outlining an almost completely unified demand for legislation based on the equalization fee plan of the McNary-Haugen bill, which was killed by presidential veto in the last congress.

Representatives of all the national farm organizations except the National Grange yesterday agreed to stick by the McNary-Haugen bill, T. W. Murphy, Minneapolis, chairman of the legislative committee of the grain belt federation of farm organizations, announced.

One provision of the vetoed bill to which President Coolidge objected will be dropped, the farm leaders agreed. This provided that the president should appoint the farm marketing board from men recommended by the farm organizations.

The plan now agreed on provides for a revolving fund of $400,000,000 instead of $250,000,000 as in the vetoed bill, to finance marketing of farm surplus.

Chairman Haugen, republican, of Iowa, announced at the opening of the committee sessions that he would attempt to conclude the hearings quickly in order to expedite congressional action. Farm leaders expect the bill to be reported favorably in about three weeks.

Meanwhile Rep. Dickinson, republican, Iowa, farm bloc leader, prepared another farm relief move. He will introduce soon a resolution for upward revision of the tariff on certain agricultural commodities. Dickinson also favors the McNary-Haugen bill.

In the senate, a vote on the McNary resolution advocating equalization of tariff protection by lowering high rates on industrial commodities, was scheduled for 3 P. M. The senate debated this proposal all last week.

come under the delusion of military grandeur. Nowhere among these republics have great military establishments ever been maintained for the purpose of overawing or subjugating other nations. We have all nourished a commendable sentiment of moderate preparation for national defense, believing that for a nation to be unreasonably neglectful of the military art, even if it did not invite and cause such aggression as to result either in war or in abject humiliation, it must finally lead to a disastrous disintegration of the very moral fiber of the nation. But it is one thing to be prepared to defend our rights as a last extremity and quite another to rely on force where reason ought to prevail."

President Coolidge declared the "republics south of the Rio Grande have produced a most satisfactory record of a resort to mediation, arbitration and other peaceful methods of adjustment and adjudication of their international differences." Maintenance and extension of such principles, he said, underlie the present conference.

"The whole atmosphere of the conference," he continued, "is animated with the spirit of democracy and good will. All nations here stand on an exact footing of equality. The smallest and the weakest

BLAME HICKMAN CASE FOR WAVE OF SIMILAR CRIMES

Los Angeles, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Edward Hickman's murder of Marion Parker was blamed today for a wave of offenses against small girls which has swept over the city the last three days.

One man was arrested for an alleged attempt to force Phyllis Whitelaw into an automobile. The girl called police and the man, Harry L. Bolton, was arrested.

An 11-year-old girl was in a serious condition at a hospital, and two other girls reported they were molested.

Meanwhile alienists continued examination of Hickman.

His trial seemed likely to develop into a battle between psychiatrists.

State doctors have proclaimed Hickman "undoubtedly sane." Defense specialists were just as emphatic in asserting that Hickman was "hopelessly unbalanced."

ATTRACTIVE SMITH COLLEGE FRESHMAN LOST

EVERY AGENCY USED TO SOLVE
MYSTERY OF NORTHAMPTON, MASS., GIRL

MISS FRANCES ST. JOHN SMITH
HAD WORRIED OVER
SCHOLASTIC STANDING

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Every agency was in use today in an attempt to solve the mystery of the disappearance of Miss Frances St. John Smith, attractive Smith college freshman, who has not been seen since Friday.

The girl's disappearance was likened to that of Miss Alice Corbett who disappeared from the college on Friday, November 13, 1925. She has never been seen since.

The day of Miss Smith's disappearance was Friday the thirteenth.

Miss Smith, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. St. John Smith of New York, had been somewhat despondent over her scholastic standing, it was said, she had worried considerably about it.

She was naturally shy, school friends said, and this, coupled with worry over her grades, may have led to her disappearance.

Fearing she might have committed suicide by drowning in Paradise pond, the waters were dragged Sunday. There was no trace of the girl. Posses searched nearby hills but they were unable to find traces of the girl.

The mother and father who arrived Sunday to aid in the search, said their daughter was not athletically inclined. They doubted a theory that she might have wandered into the woods and become lost.

Miss Smith's absence was not noted until Saturday.

PEACEMAKER'S USUAL REWARD, HIT BY BULLET

St. Paul, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—When Paul Jacobs, 51, entered the home of a friend, William E. Hicks, Sunday, he was struck by a bullet which killed him.

Hicks was arrested after Frank Owata, who was with Jacobs, overpowered the assailant.

Jacobs and Owata went to Hicks' home at the request of Mrs. Hicks who said her husband had threatened her and the Hicks children.

Police said Hicks admitted the shooting but declared he "did not know what he was doing."

MARINE BOMBING SQUADRON AT-TACKS SANDINO PATROL,
KILLING 40

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—United States marine reinforcements have taken the field against the rebel band led by General Augustino Sandino, it was learned today.

The marines, numbering approximately 1,200, arrived at Corinto from the United States over the week-end and instead of proceeding here, went directly to field posts.

Meanwhile Maj. General Lejeune, commander of the marine corps, and Brig. Gen. Logan Feland, who has been placed in charge of the American forces here, proceeded from Corinto to Managua.

General Lejeune was brought here by airplane from Corinto. General Feland came by train. They immediately went into conference with Colonel Louis Gulick, who has been in command here. The officers spent several hours going over the situation.

The last major engagement with the Sandino rebels was reported Saturday when an official report said Major R. E. Rowell, commanding a marine airplane bombing squadron, had attacked a Sandino patrol, killing 40 rebels.

The attack was near El Chipote mountain, where Sandino and his followers were strongly entrenched. The bombing planes swung out of the clouds on the patrol. Some of the planes flew low and strafed the patrol with a vigorous machine gun fire. Hand grenades were used.

The Sandino patrol returned the fire. One of the marine planes was struck twice but was not downed.

Meanwhile Nicaraguan politics became more tangled through the repeated report that President Adolfo Diaz was considering resigning. From a source close to the president it was learned that Diaz was dissatisfied by what he termed the lack of expected support from the United States. Confirmation of the rumors thus far has been impossible.

Diaz, the reports said, felt that his presidential functions practically had been absorbed by the United States' military and civil officials here, until his job has become one of troublesome responsibilities without real authority.

Jealousy between Diaz and General Moncada also was reported. It was said that Diaz felt Moncada had been favored unduly in being given several important missions.

Because of all these factors, it was said that Diaz felt his job was "useless if not actually undignified."

UNDISMAYED, CHAMBERLIN AND WILLIAMS TRY AGAIN

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Undismayed by two previous failures, Clarence D. Chamberlin and Roger Williams today began their third attempt within a week to set a new world's record for sustained flight.

The fliers left Roosevelt field at 12:52:22 p. m. in the huge Bellanca monoplane they used in their previous efforts, owned by A. R. Martine, Wall street banker.

As they climbed into the cockpit to begin their third attempt, both men still bore evidence of last week's flights. Instead of resting, they had spent most of their time since Saturday working on the plane and their faces were drawn.

*BILLY SUNDAY TO KEEP ON WORRYING DEVIL*

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Billy Sunday, the evangelist, wants his hide made into a drum "to annoy the devil after I'm dead."

"When I die," he told a Sunday revival meeting here, "I want my wife to send for a tanner and have me skinned."

"Then I want drums made of my old hide and I want men to go out on the streets of this country pounding those drums."

"I want my wife to tell everyone: 'Billy Sunday still lives to give the devil the best run he can for his money.'"

In another portion of his sermon, he asserted:

"Religion is a hoax if there is no hell."

RARE TYPE OF SEXUAL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Flint, Mich., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—While funeral services were being held today for Dorothy Schneider, 5-year-old kindergarten student, more than 100 police and sheriff's officers continued their unsuccessful search for her maniac slayer.

They sought a man suffering from a rare type of sexual dementia, which led him to abduct and murder the girl, and to make queer incisions in her body with a surgeon's precision.

The day started with the faint hope that a Bay City, Mich., man, who once posed as a physician and was leader of a religious cult until two months ago, would be connected with the murder. Every other trail investigated in the last 90 hours had proved barren.

The leader, whose name was not disclosed by Oscar G. Olander, state commissioner of public safety, who at Governor Green's order had taken complete charge of the investigation, disappeared about ten days ago after serious charges had been made against him by a girl member of his flock.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Law officers of Minnesota are on close watch for the slayer of Dorothy Schneider, Flint, Mich., with one suspect taken into custody.

Sheriff U. S. Pratt of Anoka, about 30 miles north of Minneapolis, Sunday arrested a man who said he was from Detroit and that he recently left the University of Michigan hospital at Ann Arbor.

The suspect, Sheriff Pratt reported, purchased a ticket for Detroit after he said that his automobile was stalled about six miles from Anoka and that he could not find the car.

Sheriff Pratt said the man acted "nervous and suspicious." He was described as five feet eight inches tall, has light hair and weighs about 160 pounds.

Sheriff Pratt immediately notified Flint authorities of the arrest.

Democrats Oppose Move of Republicans to Delay Tax Reduction

Washington, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Democratic members of the senate finance committee today voted unanimously to oppose the republican move for delay of the house tax reduction bill until after March 15.

Senator Smoot, republican, chairman of the committee, called a meeting for tomorrow to determine officially whether the bill should be delayed.

HAD CONSIDERED DEMAND TO FILE FOR U. S. SENATE

FEELS THAT HIS WORK AS GOV-ERNOR HAS NOT BEEN COMPLETED

MINNESOTA'S POLITICAL POT IS
BOILING WITH CANDIDATES
FILING FOR OFFICE

St. Paul, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Governor Theodore Christianson today filed for re-election, on the republican ticket.

In a statement accompanying Christianson's petition for re-election, he said:

"The demand that I become a candidate for United States senator has been so insistent, has come from so many sources of undoubted influence and has been voiced with so much sincerity, that I have felt it my duty to give it careful consideration."

"However, after much thought, I have concluded that I ought to file for re-election as governor."

"I feel that my work has not yet been completed. The economy plan is not yet thoroughly established; there are details of administration still to be worked out; there are attacks to be met and possible amendments to be adopted."

"I feel that I must finish the task undertaken as governor before seeking promotion to any other office."

St. Paul, Jan. 16.—Minnesota's political pot is boiling today with candidates filing for office and prospects for a heated race in both the senatorial and gubernatorial fields looming.

Breaking a silence of several months, Gov. Theodore Christianson today announced his candidacy for re-election. He had been considered a logical candidate for U. S. senator by republicans of the state.

A. E. Nelson, former St. Paul mayor, filed his petition for U. S. senator on the republican ticket.

Saturday J. A. A. Burnquist, former governor of Minnesota, filed for the republican nomination for U. S. senator.

Interviews by the United Press with several men prominently mentioned as possible gubernatorial candidates in event Gov. Christianson chose to be a candidate for senator, threw but little light on the political aspect of the state.

Ray P. Chase, state auditor, declared that he would say within a few days whether or not he will file for the senatorial nomination. Chase was watching Governor Christianson's action relative to the office he would seek, and since the governor is a candidate for re-election, it was considered in political circles that Chase would seek the senatorial seat.

Chief Justice Samuel B. Wilson, who last fall said he would not be a candidate for the senate against Governor Christianson, today remained silent when informed of Christianson's filing for re-election. It was known that friends are urging him to seek the republican senatorial nomination.

N. J. Holmberg, commissioner of agriculture, prominently mentioned as a gubernatorial candidate, is not expected to oppose Christianson. Holmberg was not considered as senatorial timber, and it is believed that, with Christianson seeking re-election, the agricultural commissioner will throw his support behind the executive.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—The farm relief campaign began in the house today.

Hearings opened before the house agricultural committee, with representatives of farm organizations outlining an almost completely unified demand for legislation based on the equalization fee plan of the McNary-Haugen bill, which was killed by presidential veto in the last congress.

Chairman Haugen, republican of Iowa, announced at the opening of the committee sessions that he would attempt to conclude the hearings quickly in order to expedite congressional action. Farm leaders expect the bill to be reported favorably in about three weeks.

Meanwhile Rep. Dickinson, republican, Iowa, farm bloc leader, prepared another farm relief move. He will introduce soon a resolution for upward revision of the tariff on certain agricultural commodities. Dickinson also favors the McNary-Haugen bill.

KILLING 40

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—United States marine reinforcements have taken the field against the rebel band led by General Augustino Sandino, it was learned today.

The marines, numbering approximately 1,200, arrived at Corinto from the United States over the week-end and instead of proceeding here, went directly to field posts.

Meanwhile Maj. General Lejeune, commander of the marine corps, and Brig. Gen. Logan Feland, who has been placed in charge of the American forces here, proceeded from Corinto to Managua.

General Lejeune was brought here by airplane from Corinto. General Feland came by train. They immediately went into conference with Colonel Louis Gulick, who has been in command here. The officers spent several hours going over the situation.

The last major engagement with the Sandino rebels was reported Saturday when an official report said Major R. E. Rowell, commanding a marine airplane bombing squadron, had attacked a Sandino patrol, killing 40 rebels.

The attack was near El Chipote mountain, where Sandino and his followers were strongly entrenched. The bombing planes swung out of the clouds on the patrol. Some of the planes flew low and strafed the patrol with a vigorous machine gun fire. Hand grenades were used.

The Sandino patrol returned the fire. One of the marine planes was struck twice but was not downed.

Meanwhile Nicaraguan politics became more tangled through the repeated report that President Adolfo Diaz was considering resigning. From a source close to the president it was learned that Diaz was dissatisfied by what he termed the lack of expected support from the United States. Confirmation of the rumors thus far has been impossible.

Diaz, the reports said, felt that his presidential functions practically had been absorbed by the United States' military and civil officials here, until his job has become one of troublesome responsibilities without real authority.

Jealousy between Diaz and General Moncada also was reported. It was said that Diaz felt Moncada had been favored unduly in being given several important missions.

Because of all these factors, it was said that Diaz felt his job was "useless if not actually undignified."

UNDISMAYED, CHAMBERLIN AND WILLIAMS TRY AGAIN

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Undismayed by two previous failures, Clarence D. Chamberlin and Roger Williams today began their third attempt within a week to set a new world's record for sustained flight.

The fliers left Roosevelt field at 12:52:22 p. m. in the huge Bellanca monoplane they used in their previous efforts, owned by A. R. Martine, Wall street banker.

As they climbed into the cockpit to begin their third attempt, both men still bore evidence of last week's flights. Instead of resting, they had spent most of their time since Saturday working on the plane and their faces were drawn.

BILLY SUNDAY TO KEEP ON WORRYING DEVIL

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Billy Sunday, the evangelist, wants his hide made into a drum "to annoy the devil after I'm dead."

"When I die," he told a Sunday revival meeting here, "I want my wife to send for a tanner and have me skinned."

"Then I want drums made of my old hide and I want men to go out on the streets of this country pounding those drums."

"I want my wife to tell everyone: 'Billy Sunday still lives to give the devil the best run he can for his money.'"

In another portion of his sermon, he asserted:

"Religion is a hoax if there is no hell."

FUNERAL RITES FOR THE LITTLE SCHNEIDER GIRL

100 POLICE AND SHERIFF'S OFFICERS
SEARCH FOR MISCREANT
WHO KILLED HER

SEEK MAN SUFFERING FROM
RARE TYPE OF SEXUAL DEMENTIA

By PHILIP N. O'HARA
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Flint, Mich., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—While funeral services were being held today for Dorothy Schneider, 5-year-old kindergarten student, more than 100 police and sheriff's officers continued their unsuccessful search for her maniac slayer.

They sought a man suffering from a rare type of sexual dementia, which led him to abduct and murder the girl, and to make queer incisions in her body with a surgeon's precision.

The day started with the faint hope that a Bay City, Mich., man, who once posed as a physician and was leader of a religious cult until two months ago, would be connected with the murder. Every other trail investigated in the last 90 hours had proved barren.

The leader, whose name was not disclosed by Oscar G. Olander, state commissioner of public safety, who at Governor Green's order had taken complete charge of the investigation, disappeared about ten days ago after serious charges had been made against him by a girl member of his flock.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Law officers of Minnesota are on close watch for the slayer of Dorothy Schneider, Flint, Mich., with one suspect taken into custody.

Sheriff U. S. Pratt of Anoka, about 30 miles north of Minneapolis, Sunday arrested a man who said he was from Detroit and that he recently left the University of Michigan hospital at Ann Arbor.

The suspect, Sheriff Pratt reported, purchased a ticket for Detroit after he said that his automobile was stalled about six miles from Anoka and that he could not find the car.

Sheriff Pratt said the man acted "nervous and suspicious." He was described as five feet eight inches tall, has light hair and weighs about 160 pounds.

Sheriff Pratt immediately notified Flint authorities of the arrest.

Democrats Oppose Move of Republicans to Delay Tax Reduction

Washington, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Democratic members of the senate finance committee today voted unanimously to oppose the republican move for delay of the house tax reduction bill until after March 15.

Senator Smoot, republican, chairman of the committee, called a meeting for tomorrow to determine officially whether the bill should be delayed.

HAD CONSIDERED DEMAND TO FILE FOR U. S. SENATE

FEELS THAT HIS WORK AS GOV-ERNOR HAS NOT BEEN COMPLETED

MINNESOTA'S POLITICAL POT IS
BOILING WITH CANDIDATES
FILING FOR OFFICE

St. Paul, Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—Governor Theodore Christianson today filed for re-election, on the republican ticket.

In a statement accompanying Christianson's petition for re-election, he said:

"The demand that I become a candidate for United States senator has been so insistent, has come from so many sources of undoubted influence and has been voiced with so much sincerity, that I have felt it my duty to give it careful consideration."

"However, after much thought, I have concluded that I ought to file for re-election as governor."

"I feel that my work has not yet been completed. The economy plan is not yet thoroughly established; there are details of administration still to be worked out; there are attacks to be met and possible amendments to be adopted."

"I feel that I must finish the task undertaken as governor before seeking promotion to any other office."

St. Paul, Jan. 16.—Minnesota's political pot is boiling today with candidates filing for office and prospects for a heated race in both the senatorial and gubernatorial fields looming.

Breaking a silence of several months, Gov. Theodore Christianson today announced his candidacy for re-election. He had been considered a logical candidate for U. S. senator by republicans of the state.

A. E. Nelson, former St. Paul mayor, filed his petition for U. S. senator on the republican ticket.

Saturday J. A. A. Burnquist, former governor of Minnesota, filed for the republican nomination for U. S. senator.

Interviews by the United Press with several men prominently mentioned as possible gubernatorial candidates in event Gov. Christianson chose to be a candidate for senator, threw but little light on the political aspect of the state.

Ray P. Chase, state auditor, declared that he would say within a few days whether or not he will file for the senatorial nomination. Chase was watching Governor Christianson's action relative to the office he would seek, and since the governor is a candidate for re-election, it was considered in political circles that Chase would seek the senatorial seat.

Chief Justice Samuel B. Wilson, who last fall said he would not be a candidate for the senate against Governor Christianson, today remained silent when informed of Christianson's filing for re-election. It was known that friends are urging him to seek the republican senatorial nomination.

N. J. Holmberg, commissioner of agriculture, prominently mentioned as a gubernatorial candidate, is not expected to oppose Christianson. Holmberg was not considered as senatorial timber, and it is believed that, with Christianson seeking re-election, the agricultural commissioner will throw his support behind the executive.

Draft State Fair Improvement to Cover Thirty Year Period

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 16.—(U.P.)—A state fair improvement program covering a period of 30 years will be drafted and considered at the meeting of the executive fair board Tuesday, it was indicated today by Frank E. Millard, of Canby, a member of the board of managers.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(UP)—A republican president and republican senators are attempting to keep their party in power by boasting of a prosperity which does not exist, Senator Robinson (Dem., Ark.) charged today in speaking for the McMaster tariff resolution.

"Do they believe the country can be persuaded to keep the republican party in power by repeated assertions of a false statement?" Robinson asked.

MILL CITY ARTISTS THRILL AUDIENCE

Musical Club Hears Carlo Fisher and Harrison Wall Johnson
Saturday

IN CELLO-PIANO GROUPS

Artist's Own Composition, a Waltz
Came as a Fitting Encore to Chopin Group
(Contributed)

The Musical club program, on Saturday, demonstrated what it took Shakespeare five acts to prove, viz., that "All's Well That Ends Well."

Thursday afternoon, Harry Cuthbertson telegraphed that the artist who was to have appeared on this program was in the hospital with pneumonia and that there was no available substitute. Some of the members of the Musical club board felt that a substitute should be secured, if possible. But it was not until 3 o'clock Friday afternoon that arrangements were definitely made with two Minneapolis artists. The Dispatch rendered a great service to the club members by waiting to go to press until this program was definitely assured, as it columns were the only available means of announcing a postponement.

Although given such short notice, Carlo Fisher and Harrison Wall Johnson gave one of the most enjoyable programs of the year. Mr. Fisher was in his happiest vein. He took his audience into his confidence and told them his inmost feelings regarding the music he was interpreting. In a conversational tone and with as little self consciousness as if he were talking to his own pupils, he discussed the characteristics of the composers and the compositions chosen. He was particularly happy in depicting the ethnic and historical background of Rachmaninoff whom he characterized as a Tartar whose music showed a barbaric, oriental basis in spite of the veneer of slavic culture. He said that there was always such solidity, such strength in Rachmaninoff that he furnished the roast beef of a musical menu.

The three movements of his sonata for cello and piano (which, by the way, is one of his three greatest compositions) are really a duet between these two instruments, first one taking the melody and then the other. The cello lead off with a delightful love song. The second movement strikingly illustrated the peculiar, uneven rhythm in which this composer delights. The third movement started out in great perturbation of spirit. Mr. Fisher said the composer seemed to be very much excited about something. Possibly, it was the first of the month, when all his bills came due. Later, he quieted down—probably someone had paid a bill due him which was sufficient to liquidate his indebtedness and calm his spirit. When the audience laughed, Mr. Fisher retorted: "Why not? Composers are human, just like ourselves, and are excited by the same stimuli."

A cello love-song group followed, headed by the lovely Liszt "Liebestraum." Then came an "Old Italian Song" by Pergolesi, composed after the singer had been separated from his beloved for three whole days—a lover's eternity. This group closed with "Harlequin" from "Scenes From A Masquerade Ball." The only way "Harlequin" could be fitted into this love-song group was to imagine the clown backing his chosen masked beauty into a corner and making love to her. The introduction to this number was brilliant and suggestive of feudal pomp, enabling the listener to picture a grand march of gorgeously costumed maskers. Insistent applause brought Mr. Fisher back with the question: "Shall I play 'The Swan' by—?" and the familiar name of the composer was drowned by applause. It was this delightful intercourse between artist and audience that added so much to the enjoyment of the program. In referring to this, afterwards, Mr. Fisher said: "An audience gets just as much as it gives. To an audience that is so sympathetic and responsive, one is compelled to give the best that is in him." After the cello group, came an equally popular all Chopin piano group, by Harrison Wall Johnson. A nocturn demonstrated the singing quality of his tones and a waltz and etude their brilliance. It seemed as if the tone quality of our beloved Steinway had never been brought out as it was under the magic, but firm touch of Mr. Johnson's fingers. The deep, rich tones of the bass were not marred by one rasped note and the silvery bell-like clearness of the treble was equally smooth and rippling.

Mr. Johnson's encore was a composition of his own—a waltz that was more than a waltz. In fact, it was so similar, in character, to the Chopin waltzes that it was a fitting encore to this Chopin group.

Mr. Fisher told the audience that this waltz had been broadcasted from the Elfel Tower broadcasting station six times, by a former Johnson pupil.

The closing cello group consisted of a "Lullaby" by the famous Czerwony, who was once leader of both the Boston and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestras. This was inspired by the birth of his first-born, and it sounded inspired. The second number of this group was Handel's familiar, but never trite, "Largo", and the closing number was a "Scherzo," by Paper. For encore, he played the ever-welcome "Song of India."

The Musical club president, Mrs. John Cummins, was so entranced by the music that she almost forgot to announce the next Sunday concert, when Elizabeth Kerr will be the soloist. Miss Kerr is with the Chicago Civic Opera company. She is young and beautiful, and is said to have a voice of luscious quality. The Musical Leader, of Chicago, says that "In the role of Liza, she was a vision to behold and, by her song, a pleasure to the ear."

Brainerd lovers of sweet sights and sounds will have an opportunity to judge for themselves of the correctness of this opinion as she will sing at Elks hall at 3:30 P. M., January 22.

1927 MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION

We are interested in the number of cars in the United States. The more cars there are, the more miles of roadway must be built to give them room to operate in, for the automobile has been the forerunner and immediate cause of good roads.

There were 23,579,002 motor vehicles registered in the United States during 1927. This is according to the figures just released by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company's statisticians, who have compiled their records from January 1 totals computed by the registrars of each state.

Motor vehicle production for 1927 is estimated at 3,530,000 indicating a heavy replacement business. This figure added to the registration figures for 1926 gives a total of 25,803,643. Since 1927 registration returns show only 23,579,002 motor vehicles in use the difference or 2,224,641 would indicate the number of motor cars scrapped or discarded. Replacements during the year were 9.4 per cent of the total registration.

New York State still holds first place in number of motor vehicles, but California is running a very close second. New York's percentage of increase was 9.8 while California's registration climbed only 5.5 per cent. On the other hand California possesses a motor vehicle for every two inhabitants or an average of two per family, which is figured at 4.6 persons, while New York possesses one car for every 5.2 persons or not quite one car per family.

For the first time in the history of the automotive industry four states showed a drop in registration. Florida leads with a loss of 10.4 per cent over 1926. Maine was second with a loss of 5.8 per cent.

The District of Columbia made the highest gain of any state with 17.5 per cent increase in registration. Mississippi takes second place in percentage of gain with 13.9 per cent increase to its credit.

It is coincident that the percentage of increase in three states was identical to the percentage of increase obtained in 1926. New York, Maryland and New Hampshire each showed the same per cent of increase in 1927 as was shown in 1926.

Taking the registration total and dividing it into the estimated population of the United States shows one car for every 4.9 persons, or approximately one car per family. The 1927 registration total also provides 7.9 motor cars for every square mile of area in the United States.

An estimated registration of motor vehicles on farms shows 19.9 per cent of the total or 4,700,000 motor cars and trucks. Over 19 per cent of the total highway mileage in the United States has been surfaced for motor vehicle traffic, a big gain in surfacing having been made during 1927. Gasoline consumed by motor vehicles in 1927 amounted to 9,697,000,000 gallons. 84 per cent of all the crude rubber imported was used in making tires and accessories for the motor car industry.

Minnesota ranked 14th among the state in 1926 with a registration of 627,256 cars. In 1927 a gain of 4.2 per cent was recorded, cars numbering 653,439.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS NEED NO DEFENSE

RALPH SHEETS, editor of the Brainerd Journal-Press, put a mourning border around an article on the front page of his paper last week, evidently mourning over the loss of the county printing contracts, which will be taken care of by the other papers of the county as stated in our last week's issue.

The Journal-Press has had the contracts for the publication of the Commissioners' proceedings and the delinquent tax list for the past two years at full legal rate, a rate which Mr. Sheets finds to be a New Year greeting at this time but which was perfectly fair as long as it went to the Journal-Press.

The understanding was made with all the papers of the county, that Mr. Sheets would supply them with supplements and pay them an equal share of any profits to pay for the expense of handling these supplements and this was promised the county commissioners.

Sheets failed to furnish supplements since last May, still charging full legal rates to the county, but did not share with the other papers in the profits as agreed, keeping all the moneys for himself. The Courier has not received a cent from him since May, 1926. The Courier and the other papers of the county, with the exception of the Journal-Press, have lived up to any agreements made by them and this, even though Sheets pocketed the money, a share of which rightfully belonged to the other papers.

The commissioners could not do otherwise than they did in the letting of contracts. They knew that the Journal-Press was not a responsible bidder, that its bids were unreliable, being even below actual cost of production, that the Journal-Press was not a charitable institution, but that bids were submitted by it so that Sheets could try to save his own face and have something to complain about.

It is the Board's duty to reject such bids as they know to be unreliable and accept those where they know that the people of the county will receive the service they pay for. Though it would appear that Mr. Sheets' bid was seemingly lower, the bids submitted by the Brainerd Tribune and the Courier are far lower per thousand of circulation than that of the Journal-Press. The bids of the Tribune and the Courier include seven papers of the county with a circulation in the neighborhood of ten thousand, giving ten times the distribution of that offered by the Journal-Press and they will be generally read in all parts of the county.

The present county board has always carefully watched over for the best interests of the county, and in this matter made no exception. They could not in the face of past experience with Sheets, accept unreliable bids submitted by him but gave the work to the papers they knew would live up to agreements made with the Board.—Crosby Courier.

SHERWOOD FOREST

SHERWOOD FOREST is a new and large lake shore project in Minnesota developed by Tingdale Brothers of Minneapolis. The tract consists of 500 acres of heavily timbered land on a peninsula between two main bodies of Gull lake, comprising holdings purchased from Walter H. Cobban.

The real estate firm has made expensive improvements, including a road system on which $10,000 was spent, and has platted the tract into 500 lots, ranging from a quarter of an acre to eight acres in size. Many fine summer homes already have been built on nearby property. H. F. McCarthy, president of the International Grain Company of the Twin Cities has a large and beautiful home near Sherwood Forest. L. R. Boswell, vice president of the Minneapolis Paper Company, also has a beautiful home near the new subdivision.

SYNOPSIS

Saved from despair by the brave optimism of Mickey Grogan, child of the streets, Jeffry Shore resolves to fight the handicap of falling eyesight and return to his career as an architect. Through Mickey he has become acquainted with Winifred Davidson and she proposes that he try his hand at plans for a group of buildings to be built by her employer. In her apartment he tries desperately to sketch a drawing but only when Winifred confesses that she loves him does he find it possible to go ahead. In the meantime Mickey and his little friend, Susan Dale, go to the home of her foster mother and find that she has left, leaving Susan without a home. Mickey promises to care for her and they start back for Winifred's apartment. Al Nevvers, pugilist bully and Winifred's unrelenting admirer, has threatened to call there later the same evening.

"Well," she said fiercely, "they are interesting. They're beautiful. And they're going to see! I tell you they're going to see more clearly than they ever have before!"

"Winnie—" He clutched at her hands. "The world doesn't seem such a terribly dark place, after all. But go on. Mr. Cabel said that a man was going to cross your path, a man with a pugnacious chin. But, my dear!" Jeff told of his chin. "Hardly pugnacious," he laughed.

"And I'm terribly glad it's not!" she answered. "I loathe pugnacious chins. I'd like to meet the man who said that a pugnacious chin means character in great chunks. I prefer them a little less than pugnacious. Normal, I should say."

"You are a dear!" he laughed up her visitor might be. Then she opened the door and saw—Al Nevvers.

His presence in the hallway was a great shock to her, for she had forgotten about him. Jeff had driven Al out of her mind, and now a deep frown appeared on her face. She was about to tell him once more that he was an unwelcome visitor in her home when he took from his pocket a box containing a bracelet. He presented it to the girl with a smile of large assurance, and she was disinclined to accept it. But he pushed the gift into her hands. "Come on, Girlie. I picked this little gem-gem up at Jakey, the Pawnbroker's. He tells me it was once the property of Tiffany's. Now don't say I never gave ya anything."

Winnie wanted to answer that he had frequently given her a headache, but she controlled her temper. She saw that she could not very well give him back the bracelet—not at present anyway—and she had to admit him into her room. As she followed him she thought that she would return the bracelet to him through the mail. Al swaggered into the room grinning broadly, only to come to an abrupt halt at sight of Jeffry Shore. Jeff was rising from the table.

At first, Nevvers was too astounded to speak. Then he swung about. "What's the big idea?" he asked Winnie. "Didn't I tell ya I was comin' to call tonight?"

The fact that she loved and loved had given Winnie a strength and courage she had not possessed before. Now she drew herself up laughingly and eyed Al without flinching. "I suppose I should have obtained your approval before admitting Mr. Shore," she said ironically. "but the thought somehow slipped my mind." And then, "This is Mr. Shore, Mr. Nevvers." Jeff bowed, but Al only drew his lips into a thin, hard line. He was wearing his "fighting face," or as he was fond of admitting to his friends, "the face that cracked a thousand lies."

"Jeff and I have been doing some work together," Winifred said to Al. "If you don't mind we'll go right on! She took her place beside the young man again, ignoring Nevvers' black scowl."

"I thought you said you was too tired to do anything tonight," Al blurted out. His face had grown red with chagrin, and he kept his heavy, pugnacious chin thrust out. She smiled calmly. "I was tired, but I got over it. You see this work is rather important. Mr. Shore used to be an architect before he had trouble with his eyes, and he's trying to get back into harness again."

"Yea?" asked Al. "Well, he ought not to have much trouble getting back into harness with you to help him. Looks to me like he'd need a lot of help."

There was an undernote of threat in his voice which Jeff could not ignore. He lifted his head sharply, as though he wanted to spring into combat, but Winnie quickly covered the danger with a laugh. She came over to Jeff, caught his hand and urged him to continue his sketching. She had the feeling that a fight between the two men would prove disastrous to Jeff; not that the architect could not put up a fight, but he was obviously no match to the trained and experienced Al, to whom fighting was second nature. "Do go on with the work," she urged Jeff. "Don't mind him. Her eyes seemed to be saying, 'What difference can a man like that make to us who are so in love with one another?'"

Al picked up a chair as though it were a toothpick and held it suspended in the air before deciding to seat himself. Things were going all wrong for him. Here he had taken the trouble to buy a bracelet in the hope that Winifred would warm up to him. He had looked forward to an evening of uninterrupted bliss, during which time he had hoped to conquer all of Winifred's objections to himself. Instead he found himself playing fiddle to a man who looked a sort of refined bum. What a bloody target he could make of this rival! When Winifred was called out of the room to answer a telephone call, Al reached for his hat and stood up. Jeff could just dimly make him out, towering above him.

"Look here, Mister Shore," Nevvers spoke grimly. "I'm just givin' ya a bit of warning. Winnie's my girl, and you keep away from her or I'll break your neck—see?"

CONSTIPATION IS OFTEN UNDETECTED

Even Regular Bowel Movements May Not Be Enough

90% of modern city people are victims of constipation. Some know what is wrong, because their bowel movements are irregular. Others have the same symptoms, but because their bowel movements are regular, do not know they suffer from intestinal poisoning. In these cases the movements, although regular, are not complete, and decayed material remains in the intestine to poison the entire system.

In either case the results are bad. Headaches, loss of vitality, sallow cheeks, nervousness, sleeplessness, increased susceptibility to serious diseases which may result in premature disability or death—all come from constipation caused by modern soft diet and soft life.

The remedy is simple. Add bulk and roughage to your diet—it kept primitive man healthy, and it will do the same for you. Don't form the dangerous laxative habit—use roughage, the natural cure. The best kind is the true 100% bran, Pillsbury's Health Bran. It furnishes the bulk which is so vital to your health.

Warning—be sure you get natural 100% bran—Pillsbury's Health Bran. Because it is unadulterated, uncooked and unsweetened, it really does the work—it gives you the full, gentle, natural laxative action of the unbroken flakes. Use it to prepare delicious foods, muffins, tea-cakes, apple cake, macaroons, doughnuts, etc. That's the way to eat bran—your own home baking does not crumble it and reduce its laxative value.

Eat it three times a day—delicious recipes are printed on every package.

1927 MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION

WE are interested in the number of cars in the United States. The more cars there are, the more miles of roadway must be built to give them room to operate in, for the automobile has been the forerunner and immediate cause of good roads.

There were 23,579,002 motor vehicles registered in the United States during 1927. This is according to the figures just released by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company's statisticians, who have compiled their records from January 1 totals computed by the registrars of each state.

Motor vehicle production for 1927 is estimated at 3,530,000 indicating a heavy replacement business. This figure added to the registration figures for 1926 gives a total of 25,803,643. Since 1927 registration returns show only 23,579,002 motor vehicles in use the difference or 2,224,641 would indicate the number of motor cars scrapped or discarded. Replacements during the year were 9.4 per cent of the total registration.

New York State still holds first place in number of motor vehicles, but California is running a very close second. New York's percentage of increase was 9.8 while California's registration climbed only 5.5 per cent. On the other hand California possesses a motor vehicle for every two inhabitants or an average of two per family, which is figured at 4.6 persons, while New York possesses one car for every 5.2 persons or not quite one car per family.

For the first time in the history of the automotive industry four states showed a drop in registration. Florida leads with a loss of 10.4 per cent over 1926. Maine was second with a loss of 5.8 per cent.

The District of Columbia made the highest gain of any state with 17.5 per cent increase in registration. Mississippi takes second place in percentage of gain with 13.9 per cent increase to its credit.

It is coincident that the percentage of increase in three states was identical to the percentage of increase obtained in 1926. New York, Maryland and New Hampshire each showed the same per cent of increase in 1927 as was shown in 1926.

Taking the registration total and dividing it into the estimated population of the United States shows one car for every 4.9 persons, or approximately one car per family. The 1927 registration total also provides 7.9 motor cars for every square mile of area in the United States.

An estimated registration of motor vehicles on farms shows 79.9 per cent of the total or 4,700,000 motor cars and trucks. Over 19 per cent of the total highway mileage in the United States has been surfaced for motor vehicle traffic, a big gain in surfacing having been made during 1927. Gasoline consumed by motor vehicles in 1927 amounted to 9,697,000,000 gallons. 84 per cent of all the crude rubber imported was used in making tires and accessories for the motor car industry.

Minnesota ranked 14th among the state in 1926 with a registration of 627,256 cars. In 1927 a gain of 4.2 per cent was recorded, cars numbering 653,439.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS NEED NO DEFENSE

RALPH SHEETS, editor of the Brainerd Journal-Press, put a mourning border around an article on the front page of his paper last week, evidently mourning over the loss of the county printing contracts, which will be taken care of by the other papers of the county as stated in our last week's issue.

The Journal-Press has had the contracts for the publication of the Commissioners' proceedings and the delinquent tax list for the past two years at full legal rate, a rate which Mr. Sheets finds to be a New Year greeting at this time but which was perfectly fair as long as it went to the Journal-Press.

The understanding was made with all the papers of the county, that Mr. Sheets would supply them with supplements and pay them an equal share of any profits to pay for the expense of handling these supplements and this was promised the county commissioners.

Sheets failed to furnish supplements since last May, still charging full legal rates to the county, but did not share with the other papers in the profits as agreed, keeping all the moneys for himself. The Courier has not received a cent from him since May, 1926. The Courier and the other papers of the county, with the exception of the Journal-Press, have lived up to any agreements made by them and this, even though Sheets pocketed the money, a share of which rightfully belonged to the other papers.

The commissioners could not do otherwise than they did in the letting of contracts. They knew that the Journal-Press was not a responsible bidder, that its bids were unreliable, being even below actual cost of production, that the Journal-Press was not a charitable institution, but that bids were submitted by it so that Sheets could try to save his own face and have something to complain about.

It is the Board's duty to reject such bids as they know to be unreliable and accept those where they know that the people of the county will receive the service they pay for. Though it would appear that Mr. Sheets' bid was seemingly lower, the bids submitted by the Brainerd Tribune and the Courier are far lower per thousand of circulation than that of the Journal-Press. The bids of the Tribune and the Courier include seven papers of the county with a circulation in the neighborhood of ten thousand, giving ten times the distribution of that offered by the Journal-Press and they will be generally read in all parts of the county.

The present county board has always carefully watched over for the best interests of the county, and in this matter made no exception. They could not in the face of past experiences with Sheets, accept unreliable bids submitted by him but gave the work to the papers they knew would live up to agreements made with the Board.—Crosby Courier.

SHERWOOD FOREST

SHERWOOD FOREST is a new and large lake shore project in Minnesota developed by Tingdale Brothers of Minneapolis. The tract consists of 500 acres of heavily timbered land on a peninsula between two main bodies of Gull lake, comprising holdings purchased from Walter H. Cobban.

The real estate firm has made expensive improvements, including a road system on which $10,000 was spent, and has platted the tract into 500 lots, ranging from a quarter of an acre to eight acres in size. Many fine summer homes already have been built on nearby property. H. F. McCarthy, president of the International Grain Company of the Twin Cities has a large and beautiful home near Sherwood Forest. L. R. Boswell, vice president of the Minneapolis Paper Company, also has a beautiful home near the new subdivision.

SYNOPSIS

Saved from despair by the brave optimism of Mickey Grogan, child of the streets, Jeffery Shore resolves to fight the handicap of falling eyesight and return to his career as an architect. Through Mickey he has become acquainted with Winifred Davidson and she proposes that he try his hand at plans for a group of buildings to be built by her employer. In her apartment he tries desperately to sketch a drawing but only when Winifred confesses that she loves him does he find it possible to go ahead. In the meantime Mickey and his little friend, Susan Dale, go to the home of her foster mother and find that she has left, leaving Susan without a home. Mickey promises to care for her and they start back for Winifred's apartment. Al Nevers, pugilist bully and Winifred's unbecoming admirer, has threatened to call there later the same evening.

"Well," she said fiercely, "they are interesting. They're beautiful. And they're going to see! I tell you they're going to see more clearly than they ever have before!"

"Winnie—" He clutched at her hands. "The world doesn't seem such a terribly dark place, after all. But go on. Mr. Cabel said that a man was going to cross your path, a man with a pugnacious chin. But, my dear! Jeff felt of his chin. 'Hardly pugnacious,' he laughed.

"And I'm terribly glad it's not!" she answered. "I loathe pugnacious chins. I'd like to meet the man who said that a pugnacious chin means character in great chunks. I prefer them a little less than pugnacious. Normal, I should say."

"You are a dear!" he laughed up her visitor might be. Then she opened the door and saw—Al Nevers.

His presence in the hallway was a great shock to her, for she had forgotten about him. Jeff had driven Al out of her mind, and now a deep frown appeared on her face. She was about to tell him once more that he was an unwelcome visitor in her home when he took from his pocket a box containing a bracelet. He presented it to the girl with a smile of large assurance, and she was disinclined to accept it. But he pushed the gift into her hands. "Come on, Girlie. I picked this little gee-gaw up at Jakey, the Pawnbroker's. He tells me it was once the property of Tiffany's. Now don't say I never gave ya anything."

Winnie wanted to answer that he had frequently given her a headache, but she controlled her temper. She saw that she could not very well give him back the bracelet—not at present anyway—and she had to admit him into her room. As she followed him she thought that she would return the bracelet to him through the mail. Al swaggered into the room grinning broadly, only to come to an abrupt halt at sight of Jeffery Shore. Jeff was rising from the table.

At first, Nevers was too astounded to speak. Then he swung about. "What's the big idea?" he asked Winnie. "Didn't I tell ya I was comin' to call tonight?"

The fact that she loved and was loved had given Winnie a strength and courage she had not possessed before. Now she drew herself up haughtily and eyed Al without flinching. "I suppose I should have obtained your approval before ad-at her. "But there I was standing in the doorway, behind Mickey. And you knew, then?"

"I knew. It was just a thought that passed through my mind, a thought that was like an arrow. But I knew that you were the man."

"Romantic Winnie! What about my threadbare clothes?"

"Perhaps I noticed them. I'm not so sure. But to tell you the truth, Jeff, I don't think it would make much difference to me what you wore. I can't imagine you wearing anything wrong. Now I suppose you'll be the vainest man in the world!"

"I will!"

"She struck him playfully. 'But what were you thinking when you saw me?' she asked. 'Now own up!'"

"I saw you as from a distance, not clearly. But your voice was the most musical I had ever heard. There was a kind of sweet melody running through it."

"Something that sounded like Tin Pan Alley," laughed Winifred. "Do go on. You have quite a sweet melody in your own voice. Particularly when you flatter me."

"Then when you put your hand in mine and led me up to the attic," Jeff went on, "I felt that I held the hand of—well, not just an ordinary angel—but one of God's Chosen."

"An angel with a sweet melody running through her voice. Do go on, Jeff!"

"Then, I thought: This woman is not just an ordinary person. There's something extraordinary about her, something that approaches the miraculous."

"Saint Winifred, in other words."

"Very well, if you will laugh at me," he said in a hurt voice.

"But I'm not laughing at you, darling!" And she bent over and kissed his hair to show that she was not laughing at him.

"I accept your apology. In fact, I don't mind saying that a few more apologies directed on the same spot of my skull would be very pleasing to me—even thrilling."

She was very happy at her change that had come over him. In the last few minutes he seemed to have forgotten his affliction. Should she recall it to him by urging him back to his work? It seemed a criminal thing to do. Let him have this half-hour or so of bliss without the thought of darkness, of poverty, of suffering. Poor Jeff! Why do these sensitive artistic fellows have to suffer so before they are able to realize their dreams? It seems so hard, so unnecessary! Why is it that the Jeffs of the world are made to wait in soup lines, while others, far less gifted, are bedded in luxury and softness? Winifred placed her arms about him protectively and leaned her cheek against his hair. The knock on the door startled them. She stepped back and wondered who mitting Mr. Shore," she said ironically, "but the thought somehow slipped my mind." And then, "This is Mr. Shore, Mr. Nevers." Jeff bowed, but Al only drew his lips into a thin, hard line. He was wearing his "fighting face," or as he was fond of admitting to his friends, "the face that cracked a thousand lips."

"Jeff and I have been doing some work together," Winifred said to Al. "If you don't mind we'll go right on! She took her place beside the young man again, ignoring Nevers' black scowl."

"I thought you said you was too tired to do anything tonight," Al blurted out. His face had grown red with chagrin, and he kept his heavy, pugnacious chin thrust out.

She smiled calmly. "I was tired, but I got over it. You see this work is rather important. Mr. Shore used to be an architect before he had trouble with his eyes, and he's trying to get back into harness again."

"Yea?" asked Al. "Well, he ought not to have much trouble getting back into harness with you to help him. Looks to me like he'd need a lot of help."

There was an undertone of threat in his voice which Jeff could not ignore. He lifted his head sharply, as though he wanted to spring into combative action, but Winnie quickly covered the danger with a laugh. She came over to Jeff, caught his hand and urged him to continue his sketching. She had the feeling that a fight between the two men would prove disastrous to Jeff; not that the architect could not put up a fight, but he was obviously no match to the trained and experienced Al, to whom fighting was second nature.

"Do go on with the work," she urged Jeff. "Don't mind him," her eyes seemed to be saying. "What difference can a man like that make to us who are so in love with one another?"

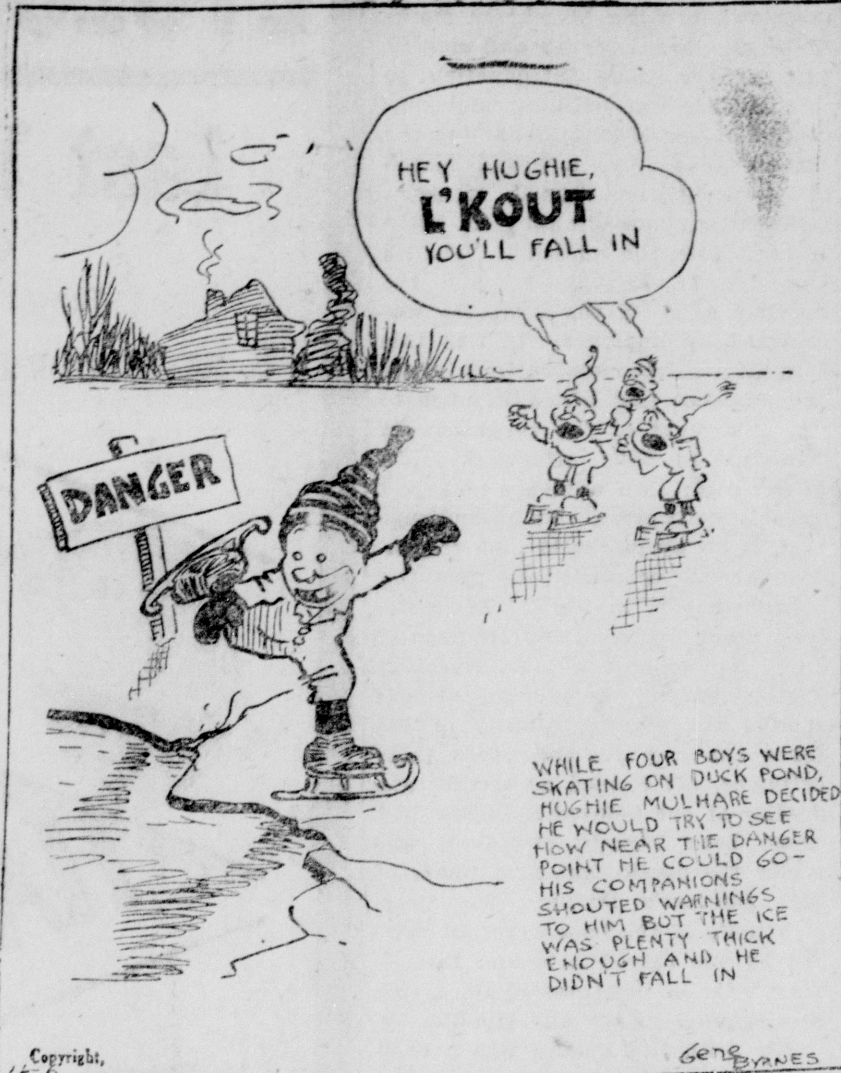

Al picked up a chair as though it were a toothpick and held it suspended in the air before deciding to seat himself. Things were going all wrong for him. Here he had taken the trouble to buy a bracelet in the hope that Winifred would warm up to him. He had looked forward to an evening of uninterrupted bliss, during which time he had hoped to conquer all of Winifred's objections to himself. Instead he found himself playing fiddle to a man who looked a sort of refined bum. What a bloody target he could make of this rival! When Winifred was called out of the room to answer a telephone call, Al reached for his hat and stood up. Jeff could just dimly make him out, towering above him.

"Look here, Mister Shore," Nevers spoke gruffly. "I'm just givin' ya a bit of warning. Winnie's my girl, and you keep away from her or I'll break your neck—see?"

"Bull" Weed Talks on Eve of His Execution

Well 'Bull' aren't you sorry? Haven't you anything to say for yourself?"

"Naw. Nothing!"

I looked at the giant form which sat before me. He was well over six feet in height and rather heavy set. A massive head, covered with thick uncombed hair, lay on the table. He ignored me. Didn't seem to know that there was another person in the cell. This was "Bull" Weed, the man who'd been arrested for the murder of "Buck" Mulligan.

Of course "Buck's" death was rather a good thing for the community. It left only one gang leader alive and he "Bull" was even now waiting for the executioner's party to arrive. The police were breathing sighs of relief. Two tough birds with one stone. It looked like a general reform wave—the end of the "underworld." This big special opens a two day run at the Lyceum Tuesday.

"Wife Savers" New Laugh Maker for Beery-Hatton at Lyceum

Biscuits, mothers - in - law, and mountain-climbers are all funny, but Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, in the Algonie comedy drama, "Wife Savers," which opened at the Lyceum theatre yesterday are funnier than all of them, jointly or severally.

Beery bakes the biscuits and climbs the mountains, in the garb of a Swiss yodeler, and the mother-in-law tries to induce him to share a bouboir with the bride he has wrongfully appropriated from Raymond Hatton, who is a second lieutenant in the same unit of the American army in which Beery is not only a buck private but a kitchen policeman as well.

This new Beery-Hatton opus is nonsense of purest ray aene. Its architects had only one thought in mind and that was deep raucous laughter that would convulse the diaphragms of the customers, which it does successfully.

Paramount has given its star comedians an exceptionally capable cast, including such bigtime names as Ford Sterling, ZaSu Pitts, Tom Kennedy and Sally Blane.

NEW 'CROSS-FLOW' RADIATOR FEATURE OF LATEST PONTIAC

The "cross-flow" radiator, one of the features of the New Series Pontiac Six, has attracted a large share of attention among the critical "new stuff" enthusiasts who have thronged the automobile shows and the Oakland-Pontiac show rooms since the latest Pontiac was first shown on January 5.

Flowing horizontally through 38 1/2 inches of radiator core cooling surface, instead of vertically, this radiator takes advantage of the principle of condensation. It has two side tanks, connected by a core with horizontal water passages and a top tank. Water from the engine enters the inlet tank and flows cross-ways through the core into the cool water tank on the other side. It is then returned to the engine. The cool water tank extends up the side and across the top where the filling cap is located.

While passing cross-wise through the core, any water or anti-freeze mixture which may have become vaporized in the engine is cooled and condensed before it reaches the vent. In cold weather, when alcohol or anti-freeze mixtures are used, it is particularly effective.

Copper is used in the construction of this radiator, instead of brass, marking another departure in construction. Circulation is handled through a completely redesigned water pump which is similar to that on the Oakland all-American Six. End thrust is greatly reduced through a balanced impeller. The fan is a 15-inch two-blade type, turns on bronze bearings and is driven by a belt. The cooling system is thermostatically controlled.

BRAINERD Y HOPEFUL OF DEFEATING MILL CITY TEAM

BRAINERD HIGH GYM IS SCENE OF DOUBLE HEADER

COMETS AND NORTHEAST IN PRELIMINARIES AT 7:15 P. M.

LINE-UP OF BRAINERD Y. TEAM ANNOUNCED BY WALLACE ANDERSON

The Brainerd high school gym will be the scene of a double header in basketball tonight, when the Minneapolis Nomads invade local territory and play the Brainerd Y.

At 7:15 o'clock Lawrence Swanson, well known high school player, will referee the preliminary which will start at that time between the Comets and Northeast. This promises to be a real battle to their many friends.

The Comets have a thousand percent record so far this season, having played the Hi-Y, the Baptists and other teams in their class. The Comets are better known to the boys as the "court house gang" as they are a group who have the old court house leased for themselves. Wm. Marshall and his experienced players of the old Radiola team expect to give the Comets some unlooked for competition.

Wallace Anderson, manager of the local "Y" cagers, announced the starting line-up of the Brainerd Y against Minneapolis tonight as 'Bill' Zakariassen at center, Nutting and Heck at forwards, Welsh and Fitzsimmons as guards. Lawrence, Hess, Orth, Fitzharris, Laitala, Wallin and Anderson will be in suits ready to relieve players where necessary. This will be the first appearance of the newly, fully organized "Y" team on the local floor. From reports of ticket sales, a large attendance is expected tonight.

IN MIDDLE OF ROAD TO THE NEXT BATTLE OF CENTURY

PROMOTER LOSES NO TIME IN CRANKING UP THE MACHINE

SHARKEY FIGHT WAS A FIASCO INsofar AS HIS PROSPECTS ARE CONCERNED

By FRANK GETTY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Jan. 16.—Although Tex Rickard's 1928 model eliminator (F. O. B. ringside) broke down in most distressing fashion right in the middle of the road to the next battle of the century, the Sesqui-Centennial, the two million, or how much have you?, the promoter has lost no time in cranking up and starting the machine going all over again.

Tonight, two of Tex's reorganized band of mutual eliminators will appear in tune-up bouts by way of re-furnishing public interest in the process.

The fight which was to have shoved Jack Sharkey into the limelight as the logical contender proved a painful fiasco when Tom Heeney held the Bostonian to a draw. Everyone except Rickard agreed that both men were successfully eliminated.

The indefatigable promoter hurriedly organized a new tournament and named Sharkey, Heeney, Jack Delaney, Paulino Uzcudun, Johnny Risko, Knute Hanson and Nap Jack Dorval as participants.

Delaney and Paulino start the ball rolling tonight, but in widely separated rings. Naturally two such able eliminators are not to be hurriedly brought together. Nor has either achieved the dignity of a place at the top of the card in Madison Square Garden this week.

Instead, Delaney, the former light heavyweight champion, who holds the distinction of being the only man ever eliminated by Jimmy Maloney of Boston, will practice on Sully Montgomery of Chicago. Montgomery is a college graduate, and Delaney, with an eye on a match with Gene Tunney, is anxious to acquire a few pointers on the manners and gestures of an educated opponent.

Delaney probably will stop Montgomery within a few rounds in their bout at the St. Nicholas rink, after which the Bridgeport boxer will journey to Boston to pop over Jack Humbeck of Belgium later in the week.

Paulino meets Ed Keeley, 200-pound southpaw from Boston, at the Broadway arena tonight. The Basque already has run out on three previous engagements with Keeley which lends a certain air of piquancy to the affair.

If Paulino gets past the Hub giant, the Basque will be reintroduced to the elimination tourney proper. There he may meet the winner of a trial affair between Dorval and Hanson.

Delaney, after he has defeated Montgomery and Humbeck, will prepare for a bout with Johnny Risko early next month. This pair met twice, Delaney winning in Madison Square Garden and Risko handing Jack a pasting in Cleveland.

This, of course, is one of the great drawbacks to the present elimination tournament. Most of the contenders have met, and by their poor performances, become mutually eliminated from serious consideration as fit opponents for Gene Tunney.

It may be that Gene Tunney feels that the more conflicting reports are in circulation concerning his plans for the year, the greater will be the public interest and attendance when finally he does draw on a pair of six-ounce gloves in defense of his title.

When Jack Dempsey held the championship, he and "Doc" Kearns were able to scare up a rumor a week to keep the talk pot boiling and mystify the fans.

Tunney didn't do so much of this sort of thing last year, especially before the Chicago fight. Gene was content to let it be known that he would meet anyone Tex Rickard chose (provided Tex chose Dempsey), and fight anywhere the promoter decided upon.

This year it's different. Tunney isn't going to fight for Tex unless he feels like it. He's going to fight twice. He's going to fight Paulino Uzcudun in San Francisco one week and Tom Heeney at Yankee Stadium the next, stopping off enroute to polish off Jack Delaney in Chicago.

Not a sound fact in the whole bushel of ballyhoo, beneath which the dim flicker of truth is completely hidden.

Here are two or three little facts which may be helpful to the perplexed fight fan:

When Tunney gets ready to fight and Rickard ready to promote, the pair will get together for the next defense of the heavyweight championship and its accompanying millions.

If there is any way to get Jack Dempsey into the ring with Gene once more, short of using a wheel-chair, it will be done;

Tex Rickard and Tunney do not like each other any better than did Weber and Fields. That famous pair were enemies for years and years and wouldn't speak to each other off the stage;

BUT YOU DIDN'T NOTICE WEBER AND FIELDS TURNING DOWN ANY LUCRATIVE THEATRICAL ENGAGEMENTS.

Rickard thinks Tunney is a snob, and Tunney thinks Rickard is a low brow. And if neither is entirely wrong, surely that is nothing against either. They will get together when the time to harvest the dollar crop rolls around.

Meanwhile, business in the other divisions is looking up. Next week will see the return of Ace Hudkins, the tawny Nebraska wild cat, who first burst upon the consciousness of New Yorkers by flattening young Ruby Goldstein, erstwhile darling of the Ghetto.

Hudkins returns to meet Lew Terdler of Philadelphia, who undoubtedly is in there just as a stepping stone to Ace's progress up towards a title fight with Joe Dundee.

The following week, there will be another championship bout, with Tony Caouzeri of Brooklyn, who recently conquered Bud Taylor, in action against Benny Bass, recognized N. E. A. featherweight title-holder.

OF FT. SNELLING CHAPEL

Fred A. Farrar Named Local Treasurer; Committee of Five at Head

The Samuel Huntington Chapter of the D. A. R. has joined with other organizations throughout the state in the raising of $15,000, required for the completion of the $85,000 Fort Snelling Memorial Chapel now under construction at Fort Snelling.

Announcement from headquarters, office of the Chaplain at Fort Snelling states that within a few days the workmen who have been busy all the summer will be laid off the Fort Snelling Memorial Chapel and Community Center because of lack of funds with which to continue. The work which has already been done represents an outlay of some $70,000. Only $15,000 is needed to complete the structure which is so sorely needed. The 1200 soldiers and the 200 children at Fort Snelling have unflinching faith that this project is going on to completion. About $15,000 worth of memorial gifts have been promised when the Chapel is finally ready to receive them.

The Snelling Memorial Chapel project is an inter-church responsibility. When completed, the Chapel will be available for the use of Protestants, Catholics and Jews. The 1400 boys at Fort Snelling come

Contest

Wray Hiller's contributions in the movie and amusement field are expected to attract a record crowd at the Lyceum theatre during "Surprise Week," according to attendance figures announced today for Saturday and Sunday, opening days.

A packed house greeted each performance over the week end and theatre attendants were forced to turn people away when the house filled.

Attendance tabulations reveal that close to 3,000 Brainerd and county people saw favorite screen stars at the Lyceum Saturday and Sunday.

The surprise week continues all this week with special attractions announced. Tickets purchased for benefit showings for the city sport center grounds are good for tonight also Tuesday and Wednesday.

The old fiddlers contest will open tomorrow evening between shows with three fiddlers vying for honors for the finals. "Underworld" famous play of Chicago's uncensored crime plots will appear tomorrow and Wednesday. It is a picture worth seeing.

Tonight that team of hilarious humor Beery and Hatton will again favor the local theatre public with their acting in "Wife Savers." In addition to a repeat on the showing of "The Cub Reporter," Brainerd's own movie.

THE ONLY CAR OF ITS KIND IN THE WORLD

For numberless puzzled motorists Dodge Brothers New Victory Six will simplify the problem of selection, for nowhere in the world is there a car like it. Greater expenditure will not duplicate it.

To possess this car's unique advantages you must possess this car.

A Radical Departure in Body Design

In The Victory, for the first time in history, the body sill is eliminated. Body and chassis are built as a single integral unit.

Thus, the wide, deep chassis frame of The Victory, now flush with the lines of the body, avoids the customary overhang of a wide body upon a narrow frame; and the chassis itself, rather than the body, supports all weight—body, floor, seats and passengers.

Amazing Results

The results of this construction are astonishing.

330 body parts are eliminated.

175 pounds of superfluous weight are cast off.

The all-important CENTER OF GRAVITY is materially lowered.

Without the slightest sacrifice of head-room or road-clearance, the over-all height of the car is also lowered—one of the secrets of The Victory's great beauty.

The amazing resources of the car's brilliant power plant are multiplied still further by perfect distribution and economy of weight.

Power in relation to load is materially increased—pick-up quickened—far greater flexibility achieved.

21 valid miles per gallon at 25 miles per hour is made possible FOR A SIX! Incredible smoothness at high speed is another great gift of this new design!

Elimination of back-wheel "chatter" when the 4-wheel Lockheed-Hydraulic brakes are quickly applied is still another!

And thanks to The Victory's low center of gravity and wide chassis frame, swaying, skidding, tipping—each a factor of weight and its proper and improper placement—are reduced to a new and negligible minimum.

Another New Safety Feature

Yet Dodge Brothers have taken a further revolutionary step to insure the safest motor transportation it is possible to create.

For the first time in automobile history, they have applied the so-called battleship construction to closed car design.

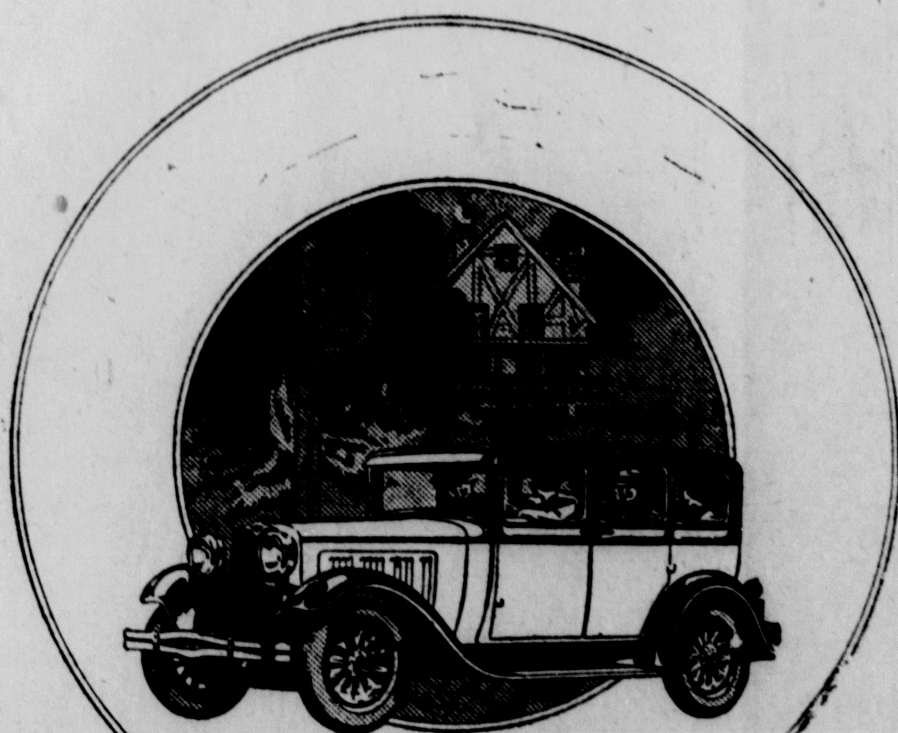

In other words, the body has a double steel shell, locked together, with an air space intervening—is actually TWO bodies, one within the other—yet lighter by 175 pounds—and the safest body known.

Structure

OF FT. SNELLING CHAPEL

Fred A. Farrar Named Local Treasurer; Committee of Five at Head

The Samuel Huntington Chapter of the D. A. R. has joined with other organizations throughout the state in the raising of $15,000, required for the completion of the $85,000 Fort Snelling Memorial Chapel now under construction at Fort Snelling.

Fred A. Farrar was named treasurer in the drive to raise funds in Brainerd for the chapel. The committee in charge of the work here follows: Mrs. M. A. Bronson, Mrs. P. W. Wieland, Mrs. R. T. Campbell, Mrs. Louis Knudsen, and Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone.

Announcement from headquarters, office of the Chaplain at Fort Snelling states that within a few days the workmen who have been busy all the summer will be laid off the Fort Snelling Memorial Chapel and Community Center because of lack of funds with which to continue. The work which has already been done represents an outlay of some $70,000. Only $15,000 is needed to complete the structure which is so sorely needed. The 1200 soldiers and the 200 children at Fort Snelling have unflinching faith that this project is going on to completion. About $15,000 worth of memorial gifts have been promised when the Chapel is finally ready to receive them.

The Snelling Memorial Chapel project is an inter-church responsibility. When completed, the Chapel will be available for the use of Protestants, Catholics and Jews. The 1400 boys at Fort Snelling come

MORAL CONDITIONS IN YEAR UNFAVORABLE

County Welfare Board Faces Most Serious Problem in Boys and Girls

26 NEW UNMARRIED MOTHERS

Parents Implored to Conduct Supervision Over Children's Lives

The dance hall, the parked automobile, and the parents failure to lay down discipline to their children were blamed by the County Welfare Board as specific causes for the increasingly large number of unmarried mothers in Crow Wing county last year—the board's most serious problem to contend with. During the past year there were 26 unmarried mothers in the county, a deplorable condition which the board cannot absolutely remedy without the wholehearted support of the parents of the county.

Miss Rebecca Cassell, secretary of the Board in submitting her yearly report writes as follows in this respect:

"A challenge is issued to us by the young people of our county. Our laws provide that boys and girls 16 to 18 years of age shall not attend public dances without parent or guardian or a written report and under sixteen under no circumstances without parent or guardian. If, as happens in many cases, the parents are not sufficiently interested in their children to see that they live up to the laws of their state and county or to know where their children are spending their evenings, it is up to the community to make some provision or provide a substitute for the dance halls and parked automobile. We have provided better for our boys than for our girls but let us hope that sometime within the near future some interested organization may attempt to help solve the problem. What shall we do with our boys and girls to provide more wholesome recreation?"

"The increasingly large number of unmarried mothers, twenty six in the past year, would indicate that many of our fathers and mothers are either too much interested in outside affairs to give their children sufficient supervision or have not taken enough interest in the children to give them proper training and supervision and know, where and how their boys and girls are spending their spare time. Several of the young men, and most of them are young, who have admitted or been adjudged the fathers in these cases did not take seriously enough the responsibility placed upon them and it has been necessary to bring four of them in on charges of contempt of court. There have been judgments of paternity settled in and out of court in seven cases."

The report for the year 1927 continues:

"During the past year we have had thirteen boys and girls on probation and through the courtesy of the Rotary club have been able to provide men who act in the capacity of big brothers to the Brainerd boys. In a couple of other cases we have also been able to provide big sisters for girls."

"Two children have gone to the Crippled Children's hospital at Phalen Park and hospital care at the University hospital was provided in two cases."

"When we come to the feeble minded, we again touch upon a rather discouraging factor as the State Institutions for the feeble minded are always overcrowded and have a long waiting list so that even when commitments are secured there is an indefinite wait for admission. Many of these, of course, can have outside supervision but with only one worker to cover the whole county the supervision given is not always satisfactory and visits cannot be made as frequently as they should be for the welfare of the person committed and of the community at large. We have during the past year sent four persons to the institution at Faribault or some other institution where temporary care could be given. We have had an examiner with us twice during the year and five persons have been committed to the custody of the State Board of Control as feeble minded. Two children of a family the year previously committed to the State Public School have been returned to the county as feeble minded.

"There have been three adoptions completed but several other investigations made preliminary to adoption or indefinite placement in the homes."

"The applications for county allowances and the number of allowances granted during the year have increased considerably. We have had eleven applications and fourteen new allowances, there being three applications pending at the beginning of the year. Eight cases have been closed due to the remarriage of the mothers, the removal from the county or because of better financial situation in the home. Several of them have been cut because of children becoming sixteen years of age or an increased outside income."

"In addition to the above, the miscellaneous cases, covering poverty or some other family problem not included in other classifications have required considerable attention and have continued to increase in number. Among this number has been a blind man who is also helpless and for whom we have been attempting to secure sufficient funds to purchase a radio that he may receive a little pleasure while bedfast and helpless. This fund is almost complete only a few more dollars being needed and we hope to get the radio within the near future."

"The case load is heavy and the territory large but for all of that we feel that the year has not been wasted and that considerable worth has been accomplished."

The report for year 1927, shows:

"Looking backward over the year we find that it has been a very full and interesting one. We find, however, several discouraging things, one of which is that we have found it necessary to break up more homes than at any one time in the period during which the present worker is with us. Ten children, two of whom were illegitimate and another a foundling, were committed to the State Public School and in one other family a temporary commitment was made to give the parents a chance to re-establish themselves if possible, and in another case the father was permitted to pay board for the children and see them at any time, the mother refused any contact with them," the report concludes.

January Is Bargain Month

There are many things which must be sold during this month at reduced prices. Certain lines of seasonable merchandise must be closed out before all the new spring things come. Necessarily the selection is not as large as during the earlier part of the season, so we made the prices more attractive.

You will find a great many things which are marked at close out prices for this month, small lots which are marked at the very bottom prices.

Reduced prices on coats, dresses and fur coats which make it a most opportune time to buy.

Plan on coming during this month as you are sure to save money on many of your purchases.

this morning before a courtroom packed to the doors with parties interested from Pine River and Jenkins.

Hiram Snell, the defendant in the assault charge upon Richard Wallin pressed by the state, was found guilty of assault by Judge J. H. Warner and fined $25 and costs.

Witnesses testified that Snell struck Wallin first and Wallin retaliated after picking himself up from the ground by knocking down Snell three times. The two however, according to testimony, became friendly after the fight, shook hands, and Snell "treated" Wallin to a "feed" in a restaurant.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MORAL CONDITIONS IN YEAR UNFAVORABLE

County Welfare Board Faces Most Serious Problem in Boys and Girls

26 NEW UNMARRIED MOTHERS

Parents Implored to Conduct Supervision Over Children's Lives

The dance hall, the parked automobile, and the parents failure to lay down discipline to their children were blamed by the County Welfare Board as specific causes for the increasingly large number of unmarried mothers in Crow Wing county last year—the board's most serious problem to contend with. During the past year there were 26 unmarried mothers in the county, a deplorable condition which the board cannot absolutely remedy without the wholehearted support of the parents of the county.

Miss Rebecca Casell, secretary of the Board in submitting her yearly report writes as follows in this respect:

"A challenge is issued to us by the young people of our county. Our laws provide that boys and girls 16 to 18 years of age shall not attend public dances without parent or guardian or a written report and under sixteen under no circumstances without parent or guardian. If, as happens in many cases, the parents are not sufficiently interested in their children to see that they live up to the laws of their state and county or to know where their children are spending their evenings, it is up to the community to make some provision or provide a substitute for the dance halls and parked automobile. We have provided better for our boys than for our girls but let us hope that sometime within the near future some interested organization may attempt to help solve the problem. What shall we do with our boys and girls to provide more wholesome recreation?"

"The increasingly large number of unmarried mothers, twenty six in the past year, would indicate that many of our fathers and mothers are either too much interested in outside affairs to give their children sufficient supervision or have not taken enough interest in the children to give them proper training and supervision and know, where and how their boys and girls are spending their spare time. Several of the young men, and most of them are young, who have admitted or been adjudged the fathers in these cases did not take seriously enough the responsibility placed upon them and it has been necessary to bring four of them in on charges of contempt of court. There have been judgments of paternity settled in and out of court in seven cases."

The report for the year 1927 continues:

"During the past year we have had thirteen boys and girls on probation and through the courtesy of the Rotary club have been able to provide men who act in the capacity of big brothers to the Brainerd boys. In a couple of other cases we have also been able to provide big sisters for girls."

"Two children have gone to the Crippled Children's hospital at Phalen Park and hospital care at the University hospital was provided in two cases."

"When we come to the feeble minded, we again touch upon a rather discouraging factor as the State Institutions for the feeble minded are always overcrowded and have a long waiting list so that even when commitments are secured there is an indefinite wait for admission. Many of these, of course, can have outside supervision but with only one worker to cover the whole county the supervision given is not always satisfactory and visits cannot be made as frequently as they should be for the welfare of the person committed and of the community at large. We have during the past year sent four persons to the institution at Faribault or some other institution where temporary care could be given. We have had an examiner with us twice during the year and five persons have been committed to the custody of the State Board of Control as feeble minded. Two children of a family the year previously committed to the State Public School have been returned to the county as feeble minded.

"There have been three adoptions completed but several other investigations made preliminary to adoption or indefinite placement in the homes."

"The applications for county allowances and the number of allowances granted during the year have increased considerably. We have had eleven applications and fourteen new allowances, there being three applications pending at the beginning of the year. Eight cases have been closed due to the remarriage of the mothers, the removal from the county or because of better financial situation in the home. Several of them have been cut because of children becoming sixteen years of age or an increased outside income."

"In addition to the above, the miscellaneous cases, covering poverty or some other family problem not included in other classifications have required considerable attention and have continued to increase in number. Among this number has been a blind man who is also helpless and for whom we have been attempting to secure sufficient funds to purchase a radio that he may receive a little pleasure while bedfast and helpless. This fund is almost complete only a few more dollars being needed and we hope to get the radio within the near future."

"The case load is heavy and the territory large but for all of that we feel that the year has not been wasted and that considerable of worth has been accomplished."

The report for year 1927, shows:

Active cases January 1, 1927	289
New cases	125
Recurrent cases	12
Active January 1, 1928	343
Home calls	258

"Looking backward over the year we find that it has been a very full and interesting one. We find, however, several discouraging things, one of which is that we have found it necessary to break up more homes than at any one time in the period during which the present worker is with us. Ten children, two of whom were illegitimate and another a foundling, were committed to the State Public School and in one other family a temporary commitment was made to give the parents a chance to re-establish themselves if possible, and in another case the father was permitted to pay board for the children and see them at any time, the mother refused any contact with them." the report concludes.

January Is Bargain Month

There are many things which must be sold during this month at reduced prices. Certain lines of seasonable merchandise must be closed out before all the new spring things come. Necessarily the selection is not as large as during the earlier part of the season, so we made the prices more attractive.

You will find a great many things which are marked at close out prices for this month, small lots which are marked at the very bottom prices.

Reduced prices on coats, dresses and fur coats which make it a most opportune time to buy.

Plan on coming during this month as you are sure to save money on many of your purchases.

this morning before a courtroom packed to the doors with parties interested from Pine River and Jenkins.

Hiram Snell, the defendant in the assault charge upon Richard Wallin pressed by the state, was found guilty of assault by Judge J. H. Warner and fined $25 and costs.

Witnesses testified that Snell struck Wallin first and Wallin retaliated after picking himself up from the ground by knocking down Snell three times. The two however, according to testimony, became friendly after the fight, shook hands, and Snell "treated" Wallin to a "feed" in a restaurant.

COOLIDGE VITALIZES THE MONROE DOCTRINE

speaks here with the same authority as the largest and the most powerful."

Turning to the question of the press as a medium of promoting international good will, Mr. Coolidge emphasized that much damage can be done by "misinterpreting facts or by carelessness in presenting them in their true light."

Development of inter-American highways and aviation, he suggested, would act as a new link in the bonds among the Americans.

Turning again to the question of peaceful means of settling disputes, the president declared:

"It is a high example that we have set for the world in resolving international differences without resort to force. Our republics seek no special privileges for themselves, nor are they moved by any of those purposes of domination and restraints upon liberty of action which in other times and places have been fatal to peace and progress."

"The light which Columbus followed has not failed," the president said in conclusion. "The courage that carried him on still lives. They are the heritage of the people of Bolivia and of Washington. We must lay our voyage of exploration toward complete understanding and friendships. Having taken that course, we must not be turned aside by the fears of the timid, the counsels of the ignorant, or the designs of the malevolent. With law and charity as our guides, with that ancient faith which is only strengthened when it requires sacrifices, we shall anchor at last in the harbor of justice and truth. The same Pilot which stood by the side of the Great Discoverer, and the same Wisdom which instructed the founding fathers of our republics, will continue to abide with us."

CUBA OPENS ITS PORTALS TO COOLIDGE

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 16. — President Coolidge today gave Pan-America a good will message and the world a warning that the American republics will work out their own destiny in their own way.

Honored by Cuba with rare acclaim as he entered the city Sunday over a rose-strewn road, the American president today in the National Theater told delegates of 21 American countries that the Golden Rule and "consideration, co-operation, friendship and charity," chart the course of the United States and other American republics.

He sounded a warning that these countries must join together to work out "their own destiny in their own way."

Many regarded his caution as a notice to the League of Nations not to interfere in Pan-American affairs.

He preached justice, equity and respect, and lent to the Monroe Doctrine, a new vitality.

Thousands marked his route today with applause and flowers, as on Sunday, and distinguished delegates applauded heartily his good will utterances in the National Theater.

President Coolidge had received on Sunday a reception outdoors only by the Latins of France and Italy for Woodrow Wilson in their first great outburst of enthusiasm toward him at the end of the world war.

Cuba opened its portals to Calvin Coolidge and bade him a welcome that amazed his party and overjoyed the silent man from the granite hills of New England.

Cuba proclaimed a national holiday.

With all the charm of Latin generosity, the nation through its magnificent capital city turned out en masse early this forenoon to shout again its welcomes, strew his path with flowers, and say to him in the fervor of the southland that it appreciated his gesture of good will in journeying to a foreign shore.

The calendar of the president and Mrs. Coolidge was full.

The National Theater, cleared temporarily of the Ziegfeld Follies, filled early with Latin and United States guests, and made ready to greet the president and his speech.

Thereafter the president's party was to motor to President Machado's estate outside the city, partake of his hospitality, later visit a Cuban sugar mill, and then this afternoon witness a Jai Alai game—the favorite sport of Cuba.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, President and Mrs. Coolidge will be the honor guests at a state banquet in President Machado's palace. They will dine at a table graced with charming women and brilliant men of the Americas, listen to the strains of Latin music, and be able to partake, if they so elect, of the wines of Latin vineyards for, unlike the informal dinner by Machado last night, toasts will be drunk tonight.

Tomorrow before dawn the party will board the battleship Texas for the return to the United States.

The presidential dinner last night was attended by about 40, including members of the American delegation, Senator and Mrs. Edge of New Jersey, and Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur.

Twice during the evening President Coolidge had appeared on the balcony overlooking a park facing the sea. The thousands waiting in the warmth of a summery evening cheered him wildly.

The arrival of President Coolidge yesterday was a scene of matchless pageantry and whole-hearted welcome.

Everyone was eager to extend greetings to the American president. Thousands of persons lined the streets and occupied the principal vantage places. They had been in position for hours, peering out over the sea for a view of the armada that was bringing the American delegation.

It was shortly after 2 P. M. that the Texas and its accompanying ships first put into Cuban waters. Airplanes came out to meet the vessels. As the Texas slowly moved toward port, the tremendous celebration that Havana was preparing came into full view.

Thousands upon thousands of persons were lining the water-front streets.

Official salutes were fired. National anthems were played. Official receptions took place aboard the Texas.

But it was in the reception of the common people that the true Latin temperament of pageantry and good fellowship was brought out. Cheers echoed and re-echoed as the presidential party proceeded from the wharf towards the presidential palace.

Beautiful women tossed roses down the thoroughfare in front of President Coolidge's motor car. 'Vivas' were shouted at every turn. Despite his weariness after the hurried trip from Washington, President Coolidge smiled continuously. Occasionally he waved his silk hat towards the crowd and this brought always new outbreaks of cheering.

In the bay all the craft were tooting welcomes. It was a strange medley of sounds and contrasted vividly with the serenity and beauty of the clear skies, the yellowed walls of old Habana and the quiet dignity of the city.

After arriving at the presidential palace, the president retired for a short rest before attending a dinner tendered by President Machado.

MYSTERIOUS LIFE OF BETTY CHAMBERS PUZZLES POLICE

BEATEN AND STRANGLER, CHICAGO WOMAN WAS FOUND DEAD AMIDST FINERY

TWO THEORIES OF THE GIRL ADVANCED BY THE AUTHORITIES

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(UP)—The mysterious life of Betty Chambers, which led to death by blows and strangulation amid her silken finery, puzzled police today as they prepared for a coroner's inquest into her murder.

Two pictures of the girl had been uncovered, but which was the true one police could not tell. She was the brains of a gang of jewel thieves, according to one version, which credited her with staging a $200,000 diamond robbery in Cleveland. ## COOLIDGE VITALIZES THE MONROE DOCTRINE speaks here with the same authority as the largest and the most powerful.

Turning to the question of the press as a medium of promoting international good will, Mr. Coolidge emphasized that much damage can be done by "misinterpreting facts or by carelessness in presenting them in their true light."

Development of inter-American highways and aviation, he suggested, would act as a new link in the bonds among the Americans.

Turning again to the question of peaceful means of settling disputes, the president declared:

"It is a high example that we have set for the world in resolving international differences without resort to force. Our republics seek no special privileges for themselves, nor are they moved by any of those purposes of domination and restraints upon liberty of action which in other times and places have been fatal to peace and progress."

"The light which Columbus followed has not failed," the president said in conclusion. "The courage that carried him on still lives. They are the heritage of the people of Bolivia and of Washington. We must lay our voyage of exploration toward complete understanding and friendship. Having taken that course, we must not be turned aside by the fears of the timid, the counsels of the ignorant, or the designs of the malevolent. With law and charity as our guides, with that ancient faith which is only strengthened when it requires sacrifices, we shall anchor at last in the harbor of justice and truth. The same Pilot which stood by the side of the Great Discoverer, and the same Wisdom which instructed the founding fathers of our republics, will continue to abide with us."

CUBA OPENS ITS PORTALS TO COOLIDGE

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 16. — President Coolidge today gave Pan-American a good will message and the world a warning that the American republics will work out their own destiny in their own way.

Honored by Cuba with rare ac-

claim as he entered the city Sunday over a rose-strewn road, the American president today in the National Theater told delegates of 21 American countries that the Golden Rule and "consideration, co-operation, friendship and charity," chart the course of the United States and other American republics.

He sounded a warning that these countries must join together to work out "their own destiny in their own way."

Many regarded his caution as a notice to the League of Nations not to interfere in Pan-American affairs.

He preached justice, equity and respect, and lent to the Monroe Doctrine, a new vitality.

Thousands marked his route today with applause and flowers, as on Sunday, and distinguished delegates applauded heartily his good will utterances in the National Theater.

President Coolidge had received on Sunday a reception outdoors only by the Latins of France and Italy for Woodrow Wilson in their first great outburst of enthusiasm toward him at the end of the world war.

Cuba opened its portals to Calvin Coolidge and bade him a welcome that amazed his party and overjoyed the silent man from the granite hills upon liberty of action which in other times and places have been fatal to peace and progress.

With all the charm of Latin generosity, the nation through its magnificent capital city turned out en masse early this forenoon to shout again its welcomes, strew his path with flowers, and say to him in the fervor of the southland that it appreciated his gesture of good will in journeying to a foreign shore.

The calendar of the president and Mrs. Coolidge was full.

The National Theater, cleared temporarily of the Ziegfeld Follies, filled early with Latin and United States guests, and made ready to greet the president and his speech.

Thereafter the president's party was to motor to President Machado's estate outside the city, partake of his hospitality, later visit a Cuban sugar mill, and then this afternoon witness a Jai Alai game—the favorite sport of Cuba.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, President and Mrs. Coolidge will be the honor guests at a state banquet in President Machado's palace. They will dine at a table graced with charming women and brilliant men of the Americas, listen to the strains of Latin music, and be able to partake, if they so elect, of the wines of Latin vineyards for, unlike the informal dinner by Machado last night, toasts will be drunk tonight.

Tomorrow before dawn the party will board the battleship Texas for the return to the United States.

The presidential dinner last night was attended by about 40, including members of the American delegation, Senator and Mrs. Edge of New Jersey, and Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur.

Twice during the evening President Coolidge had appeared on the balcony overlooking a park facing the sea. The thousands waiting in the warmth of a summery evening cheered him wildly.

The arrival of President Coolidge yesterday was a scene of matchless pageantry and whole-hearted welcome.

Everyone was eager to extend greetings to the American president. Thousands of persons lined the streets and occupied the principal vantage places. They had been in position for hours, peering out over the sea for a view of the armada that was bringing the American delegation.

It was shortly after 2 P. M. that the Texas and its accompanying ships first put into Cuban waters. Airplanes came out to meet the vessels. As the Texas slowly moved toward port, the tremendous celebration that Havana was preparing came into full view.

Thousands upon thousands of persons were lining the water-front streets.

Official salutes were fired. National anthems were played. Official receptions took place aboard the Texas.

But it was in the reception of the common people that the true Latin temperament of pageantry and good fellowship was brought out.

Cheers echoed and re-echoed as the presidential party proceeded from the wharf towards the presidential palace.

Beautiful women tossed roses down the thoroughfare in front of President Coolidge's motor car. 'Vivas' were shouted at every turn.

Despite his weariness after the hurried trip from Washington, President Coolidge smiled continuously. Occasionally he waved his silk hat towards the crowd and this brought always new outbreaks of cheering.

In the bay all the craft were tooting welcomes. It was a strange medley of sounds and contrasted vividly with the serenity and beauty of the clear skies, the yellowed walls of old Habana and the quiet dignity of the city.

After arriving at the presidential palace, the president retired for a short rest before attending a dinner tendered by President Machado.

TWO THEORIES OF THE GIRL ADVANCED BY THE AUTHORITIES

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(UP)—The mysterious life of Betty Chambers, which led to death by blows and strangulation amid her silken finery, puzzled police today as they prepared for a coroner's inquest into her murder.
